

EYE DEAL:

"You certainly played hard to get; I had to downshift three times!"

"Not bad; now watch how easily I can do it!"

VICKI KENNEDY!

"I'm so glad you finally caught up with me—I'd like to buy some tickets to your next Policeman's Ball!"

"I'll slap your face as soon as my nail polish dries!"

Ike: "I hear that burlesque performer is in trouble."
Mike: "Yeah—she was arrested for no gauze at all!"

"You were 'turned on'—and that's the only effective way to turn you off!"

"If you wanta succeed in this business, Miss Latour, you'll hafta learn how to use yer head!"

"Correct me if I'm wrong, but I thought the stars and planets were up in the sky."

QUIPS BY PIPS: WENDY LAMPARD!

"The most disappointed people in the world," Wendy declares, "are those who get what's coming to them!"

"But, sir—I'm not your secretary and I'm not late returning from lunch—I must have wandered into the wrong office!"

"We could go out and have a wonderful evening—but why not stay in and have an unforgettable one?"

EASY ON THE AHS!

"The best way to save face is to button up your lip!"

SIGHFUL EYEFUL: PAULA JENKINS!

GEE-WHIZ!

17

APR.
35¢

"I'm glad that you approve of lend-lease; now what is your position on give-aways?"

CARTOON SCREAMERS!
JOKES!
PEEK-A-BEAUTS!

MORE SMILES
TO THE GAL!

Put On A Happy Face!

TURN TO FUN
Read
HUMORAMA
Magazines

"He tries to impress me that he's rich by showing me with a pink coat, a car, diamonds, and an apartment, and then I find out he can't afford it!"

"What I need, Doctor, doesn't come in pills!"

"That reminds me—how is your boy friend?"

The man had fallen in love with a beauty, but her father didn't approve of his daughter's suitor.

"Once I thought I'd elope with her," he told his friend. "I put the ladder up against the side of the house and began to climb up. When I was halfway to her room, her father stuck his head out of the window and saw me."

"What did you do then?" the friend asked.

"What else could I do?" the young man shrugged. "I started painting the house!"

* * *

In a very exclusive restaurant, the young salesman paid the check, turned to the attractive companion he had dined and asked, "Would you be interested in a proposition tonight?"

The rather reserved girl blushed and said no.

"I didn't think you would," he sighed. "I simply mentioned it so I can say that business was discussed at this meal when I report it on my income tax!"

Bess: "I enjoy a good cry once in a while."

Tess: "Yes, it helps to get things out of your system."

Bess: "And it gets things out of my boy friend, too!"

"If you think she's beautiful, wait till you see her dressed!"

"When I said, 'Have one on me', I meant a drink!"

Ray: "Why do you call your dog 'Camera'?"
Jay: "Because he's always snapping at people!"

"Can you recommend a good adult 'fun game'?"

THE PUNNY WORLD OF UNCLE HARRY!

UNCLE Harry was born with a corkscrew in his mouth and since then has been affected with a twisted mind. In spite of his misfortune, however, he has tried his hand at a number of endeavors to make a stake in life but has always ended up with the blunt end of the stick.

He never really enjoyed work until he got a job in a rug factory and got hooked.

Uncle Harry's next job was in a pillow factory where he stuffed duck feathers. He didn't get very far because he started at the bottom and had to work down.

His wife egged him into buying a chicken farm. He did but when he discovered he couldn't tell the difference between a rooster and a hen, he got fowled up.

He went back to the city to become a plumber but decided it was only a pipedream.

After answering a classified ad, Uncle Harry became a luggage salesman. He did fine until he lost his grip.

His brother, Oscar, was a dentist so Uncle Harry asked him to use his pull to get him a job he could sink his teeth into.

Oscar called a friend who manufactured starch and Uncle Harry went right to work. Before the week was out, he was fired for getting stiff on the job.

His wife advised him to learn a trade. He did. For six months he went to school and studied to become a belt maker. After he graduated, he went home and gave his wife a belt.

Discouraged, Uncle Harry turned to crime. He was caught stealing a woman's girdle off a clothes line and was sent to prison on a two-way stretch.

While he was in prison, the warden made him keeper of the bee farm. It was a honey of a job and Uncle Harry thought it might help him get a quick parole, but he got stung.

After he got out of jail, Uncle Harry decided to become an inventor. He crossed a pair of pajamas with a 40-watt bulb to make a new garment for light sleepers.

On his way to the patent office, he ran his car into the side of a glue factory. The company sued and he was stuck for the damages.

By this time, Uncle Harry was at the end of his rope but his wife told him to stop hanging around the house. He went out and found a job cleaning horse stables.

At first he didn't like the smell of the proposition, but he changed his mind when he was offered a tidy sum if he kept his nose out of the business.

Well, Uncle Harry saved his money and eventually he bought stock in a soap company. He had a good chance to clean up but he sold out to sink his money in a laundry.

That's when he lost his shirt!

*"Most bosses would dock your pay for coming in late,
but I'm not money-mad!"*

"Mr. Dary—I asked for a pack of flip-top cigarettes ... not for a flip-top desk!"

"The guy with the P.D.Q. eye!"

J
O
K
E
S

POPULAR

25¢

JOKES

CARTOON ENTERTAINMENT!

"Yes, I'd like wonderful to be getting out healthy. After Delirium - You have a lot of good times in front of you!"

"I've remember - What he looks in looks,
he makes up for with money!"

FRESH and BREEZY
TOPTICKLE HUMOR!

"I must always keep an eye upon him he's so wonderful! My poor little darling!"

"Well, I'm just telling you something,
I don't intend to lose my hat!"

NOW ON SALE AT YOUR NEWSSTAND!

"Say, wait a minute—are you sure that this is a short cut to the 10th tee?"

EYE DOLL: JOY LYNN

Cal: "I hear you just bought a new car."

Hal: "Yeah—I went in to use the phone and I didn't want to leave without buying something!"

"Now, just slip into this costume and we'll hear what kind of voice you have!"

MARIE KING!

"I still don't understand why you couldn't audition my singing voice while wearing the street clothes I came in with!"

"I'd like to have a bone to pick with you tonight!"

"Pardon me, miss—I see this is not my day!"

ADRIAN SIMRIN!

EYE DOLL:

"Take my advice and don't use the strip-tease system when playing the horses ... you're liable to drop a little here and there!"

"Did you ever have the feeling that someone was watching you?!"

"I think if you had as much bounce as that yo-yo, you'd also have me around your little finger!"

"Now, Miss Perkins—do you call that art?"

"My, look how you're sweating—I never thought being a shoe clerk was such hard work!"

"You're in luck, Gertie—a scout caught the show and he wants to see you!"

GEE-WHIZ!

JANE TRACY!

"A person who resolves not to reach for forbidden fruit," Jane jests, "preserves his reputation and keeps out of a jam!"

GEE-WHIZ . . . published bi-monthly by Timey Features, Inc., at 134 E. 57th St., New York 22, N.Y. Vol. 1, No. 42, April 1967 issue

"Sara, you make the best spread in the whole county!"

"Well, all right, Dear—if you insist, I won't wait up for you!"

"Thought I'd surprise Mr. Grumpkin and come to work on time!"

SIGHFUL EYEFUL!

*"Beware of the man who boasts that he is a reservoir of knowledge . . . he might be a pool
shark!"*

"By gosh—they are stimulated!"

Ann: "I think I'll keep a diary while I'm engaged."

Fran: "I always knew you were a self-censored person!"

"Don't you dare peek until I get my robe on !"

NOT IN THE SCRIPT!

A MOVIE company was filming scenes for a picture in a public park when a cranky old man walked in line of the camera. The director shouted, "Hey, don't go through there. Richard Burper, the actor, is being shot." To which the crotchety duffer replied frostily, "Good! I saw his last picture and he ought to be!"

Plenty of the best scenes and lines in Show Biz are the ones not in the script.

A newscaster on a radio network began reading a fifteen-minute newscast. Two close friends of his, a couple of practical jokers, knowing he couldn't interrupt his broadcast, sneaked up and stripped him of his shirt, slacks, shoes and socks, leaving the frustrated guy standing there talking with nothing but his script in his hand and jockey shorts on his embarrassed body.

In a film program on television, the cue for the commercial was: "Please patronize our sponsor." On one station this canned request was followed by a spot announcement for a mortuary.

There was one flubbed-up operatic performance that would have hooked you. In one scene, the leading man, clad spectacularly in dazzling white armor, was singing a sad farewell to his lady love as he moved step by step toward a boat drawn by a swan that was supposed to carry him away to distant shores. Off stage somebody goofed, and the swan boat moved away before he could climb into it. The hero finished his song. Then he cupped his hands to his mouth and shouted to the stagehands, "Say, what time does the next swan leave?"

An actor in a live stage play performed his role so well and made such an impassioned plea for the leading lady to be his, that she gushed, unexpectedly, "Oh, yes, yes!" lousing up the plot. The curtain had to be dropped, and the audience told that the gal had changed her mind before the show could continue.

Next Mother's Day let's all remember the woman who gave to Show Business one of its finest ad libs. As an expectant mother she went to a movie theatre when she should have gone to the hospital. She had hoped for "Ben Hur," but instead she got triplets!

"There's no need to open your mouth yet, Mr. Brown!"

"I was very taut all evening—and the professor says I'll get an 'A' for it!"

KAT BARNETT!

"Sure—we comic strip heroes would rather switch in a phone booth, before coming out to fight!"

17

17

CARTOON

25¢

FUN AND COMEDY

LAUGH ENTERTAINMENT!

"Some girls marry a rich man just for the money. I'm always willing to settle for a temp man!"

"Marriage is like a movie, if it doesn't have the right stars you get some awful results!"

SMILE AND ASK YOUR NEWSDEALER FOR A COPY—NEGOTIATE!

EASY ON THE AHS: NANCY LEWIS!

"When a girl has everything a man could ask for—he usually does!"

A young movie actor was having dinner at a Hollywood restaurant. The waitress kept staring at him and finally asked, "Don't I know you from somewhere?"

He smiled and replied, "Perhaps you've seen me in the movies."

"Maybe," she said thoughtfully. "Where do you usually sit?!"

"Remember, Gladys—you promised me the next husband you were tired of!"

Harry: "I had a nice surprise last night—I won the sweepstakes..."

Larry: "Lend me five-hundred dollars."

Harry: "Wait—let me tell you the rest of the dream!"

"I won't write anything about this in my diary if you won't put it in your log!"

WHY IS IT ?

myrtlebeatty

1

Why is it that when a gal's got no
bankbook--

2

No stocks--

3

No bonds--

4

Men will sigh that she's got everything!

Detective: "How tall was your missing cashier?"

Bank manager: "I don't know, but he was $5,000 short!"

"Remember, if you have trouble crying, squeeze the onion I gave you!"

DOLLS AND SENSE:

"The rule about the game of love that's wise and novel for its smartness... It's just the only game there is that's never called because of darkness!"

"All right—who's the funny man yelling, 'That's for the birds?'"

Jack: "Lend me a dime—I want to call a friend."
Mack: "Here's thirty cents—call all your friends!"

"The chimney's stopped up again!"

"Did I hear you correctly? Did you say you want to take up the guitar so you could become popular?"

"What did I ever do to deserve this ... and why didn't I marry you sooner?!"

"Paddle? Oh, I thought you asked if I want to peddle it!"

"Well, Marla—ready for the treasure hunt?"

"See, Honey—I told you my new secretary was nothing to worry about!"

VIEWS AND WHEWS!

"A true playboy is like a fisherman . . . he doesn't expect a reply every time he drops a line!"

"I'm going back to New York—I just wanted to see the picture!"

"I'm not really hungry—I'm just being sociable!"

YOU CAN BET ON IT!

WATCHING previews of coming attractions in movie houses, the best pictures are all coming next week. Looking at a woman in a strapless evening gown, you always wonder if the dress will get up when she does.

If you are getting a close shave in a barber shop and make a strong play for the pretty manicurist, you can bet your cuticle that the cutie is the wife of the barber who's shaving you.

Should you lose your temper and shout, "You Stink!" at some cop holding up traffic in front of you, he'll walk immediately to your car, take out a black book, stick his face close to yours and ask, "How do I smell from here?"

When you pick up a baby to hold, somebody is certain to warn you to watch his little head. Believe me, in the long run, it's not his head you should look out for.

Somebody yells, "Idiot!" You'll look around. So will everybody else. It's gratifying to know there are other idiots in the world.

The woman who picks up a heavy bowling ball and throws it easily, packs around a bagful of weighty golf clubs like they were bread sticks and carries home a fifty pound sack of groceries effortlessly is the same one who'll sit in a car and wait until some man gets out, walks around and opens the door for her.

Someone you know to be a prize goof-off boasts that he gets out of bed every day of the year when the first ray of sunshine comes in his window. You can be sure his window faces west.

All those things you can bet on. And no matter what wild claims are made, television will never replace the daily newspaper. You can't wrap garbage in a television set. Or do they?

Abe: "Did you manage to get any orders today?"

Gabe: "Yes, two—one to get out and the other to stay out!"

"No sign of a chest cold—I think you'd be rid of that tightening in your chest if you'd try a larger bra!"

Tim: Do you have a voice in what your girl friend buys?"

Jim: "No—I just get the invoice!"

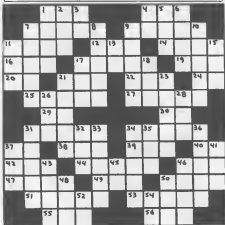

"I'd like to show you an endowment I've carried for 24 years!"

LILI ST. CYR!

"It's all right to invest your money wisely, but remember that in Wall Street, it's not the bulls and bears that give you trouble . . . it's the bum steers!"

CROSSWORD ~ ~ ~ By A. C. Gordon

ACROSS

- 1 - ... the classical
- 4 - Communion
- 7 - Fled fault
- 9 - Inadequate
- 11 - Flat land
- 12 - Consumed
- 14 - Small bubble
- 16 - Citric drink
- 17 - Shining
- 19 - Wintry sporting device
- 20 - In reference
- 21 - Health resort
- 22 - Type of bed
- 24 - Printer's unit
- 25 - Exotic distaste
- 27 - Islam's sacred scripture
- 29 - To proceed
- 30 - Silver (chem.)
- 31 - Code
- 34 - Formerly

- 37 - Sea god
- 38 - Large class
- 39 - To decay
- 40 - Provided that
- 42 - Public corridors
- 44 - To furnish
- 46 - Hello
- 47 - Festive
- 48 - Beginning of urology
- 50 - Selling chamber
- 51 - Civilian dress
- 53 - Aptitude
- 55 - Greek letter
- 56 - That thing's

DOWN

- 1 - Consume
- 2 - Girl's name
- 3 - Greek letter
- 4 - Type of electric current

- 5 - Quick pet
- 6 - Units
- 7 - Transference
- 8 - Lawful
- 9 - Goods on hand
- 10 - Assumed
- 11 - Blemish
- 13 - Male nickname
- 15 - Obscure
- 17 - Mince
- 18 - To court
- 21 - Athletics in general
- 23 - Characteristic
- 26 - Conceal
- 28 - Time past
- 31 - Pamphlet title
- 32 - Bring legal action
- 33 - Boydom
- 34 - Testimony

- 35 - Disturbance
- 36 - Waterway
- 37 - Tester
- 41 - Bog
- 43 - Swing around
- 45 - Medical title
- 46 - Bird (Latin)
- 48 - To the rear
- 50 - Grains
- 52 - Tactile sense (chem.)
- 54 - Chinese distance unit

(Solution on page 80)

"You sure aren't much of a photographer—you've taken at least a hundred pictures and I don't think you got my head in one of them."

"For a guy with 20/20 vision, you sure are quick to get the lights out!"

"I warned you before we left for the casino, to put away cab fare!"

GENTLEMEN PREFER NATURE GIRLS

"Now to complete our Sing-along...everyone stand and sing your own National Anthem"

FLICKERAMA!

"Yes, I know what's missing—I forgot my surfboard!"

Policeman: "There's no number plate on your car."

Sweetie: "It fell off, but it doesn't matter—I know the number by heart!"

"I bought this dress to help my morale, but it didn't keep up very long!"

Ken: "I know of a better cure for a cold than whiskey."

Len: "Maybe you do, but I'm not interested in it!"

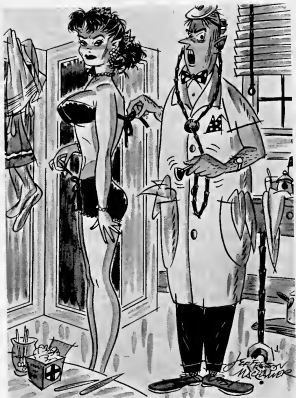

"Male or female?"

LIGHT UP THE GAL!

CUT ALONG DOTTED
WHITE LINE ON HER NOSE
AND INSERT PAPER MATCH
FROM THE BACK WITH THE RED
TIP SHOWING ONLY!

"Please turn the page so I can get on with this examination!"

"You'll like what I'm going to wear, Honey—it's a one-piece outfit called short-shorts, with a high waist-line!"

"Office collections are way up, since I assigned Miss Kilby to make them!"

Read
HUMORAMA
Magazines

MAN-SIZE ENTERTAINMENT

POPULAR
JOKES

STARE

LAUGH AND

JEST

GAZE

COMEDY

FUN
HOUSE

JOKER

LAUGH—

ZIP

CARTOON
#22 — 40¢/4

ROMP

GETTING

ONLY 35¢!

"Mozart is all right, but couldn't you play something with a little more bounce in it?"

"It's the eternal triangle—George, me and sex!"

"Well, not completely—I have the TV on!"

"Why, Darling—what made you change your mind about going to your poker club?"

"Er ... Miss Birch—read that back to me, please!"

DRAMARAMA!

BRENDA CERVANTES!

I USED to be one man's darling, but now I'm any man's plaything. I can be had for a drink and when someone gets through with me, he'll cast me aside. To begin with, the cards were all stacked up against me and sooner or later I was bound to end up the way I did.

I met my dream boat at the corner bar where I and my friends had dropped in to pass a few hours. It must have been the magic of the moment, because he walked over to me and began to act as if we were old friends. Soon he started taking liberties and before I knew it, I was giddy with excitement. You can surmise what followed. Every night after that he was in and I became more involved than ever with him.

He would never take me home and I began to suspect that he didn't think I was proper enough, although that blonde bar fly was proper enough. Talking about easy conquests, that girl was it, but what can you do with a man. After he met her, he began to spend less and less time with me and I soon began to be one of the regulars. Soon it was anybody, and you know the rest.

I blame it all on him . . .
even if I am only a dart game!

FULLY AUTOMATIC
CAMERAS

FULLY AUTOMATIC
CAMERAS

"Made it!"

"Now do you believe you have a purpose in life?"

BAFFLING FEMALES!

"VIVE LA difference!" we proclaim gallantly with the French male and female behavior and psychology are being compared. But there are times when even the most tolerant and understanding members of the sterner sex are utterly baffled by the antics and adventures of the fair.

Take that female robber, for instance, who crept up to the cashier's compartment in a San Francisco bank recently. She told the cashier to hand over all the money, but suddenly burst into tears and sobbed hysterically: "Call the guard. I'm trying to rob the bank!"

Or the gallant male passerby who saw a man beating a woman in a car parked on a London street. He rushed to the lady's defense, but the instant he opened one of the car's doors the couple left hastily through the opposite door. The woman left her handbag behind, and the knight in shining armor wondered why on earth she needed help when he opened it and glanced inside. It contained three knives, a revolver and a blackjack!

A taxi-driver in New York City stumbled upon a solution to the problem of what to do with his rubbish during a recent garbage collectors' strike. He tied it up each day in a neat package and deposited it in the back of his taxi.

Regularly, he reported, and without fail, one or another of his woman passengers would pick up the package surreptitiously and stuff it in her shopping bag!

A Philadelphia cat-lover used to have 75 assorted cats to keep her company in her apartment. When she went to New York on business recently, an eviction notice was posted on her apartment door and her belongings were removed.

The cats were taken to the SPCA headquarters and the woman was told later that 52 of them had been destroyed.

Although the SPCA stated that it was costing the organization 20¢ a day to feed each remaining cat, the woman announced her firm intention of suing the SPCA for three million dollars!

A husky Brazilian wrestler named Manuel learned some ingenious new wrestling holds recently. He taught his buxom wife how to use them and ended up with three broken ribs.

He admitted to the doctors at the hospital that his wife had stubbornly continued to force her hold even after he pounded desperately on the floor in agony to show he was giving up!

An Edinburgh woman's pay check was stolen. But when the thief forged her name and tried to cash it, he was arrested. It seems that the woman, acting on that famed but often baffling feminine intuition, had arranged with the bank always to endorse her checks with an "X" instead of her normal signature!

A 52-year-old Florida woman was rather nervous about the driving test she was going to take. While trying to park before reporting for the test, she crashed through the expensive plate glass window of a big city building and demolished the desks and filing cabinets of an entire office. The office was the headquarters of the car license bureau!

The police, the fire department and the local hospital of Cedar Rapids received frantic telephone calls from a lady in distress. She told them she was in a phone booth and couldn't get out. If they didn't do something, she said, she would suffocate.

Cops, cars, fire trucks and ambulances squealed to a halt outside the telephone booth and men raced from all directions to help the hysterical lady. They found nothing wrong with the door of the telephone booth. She was pushing it instead of pulling it!

A 20-year-old New Jersey girl, five feet tall and weighing 98 pounds—occupation hairdresser—became very angry with the police after a patrolman gave her a reckless driving summons. She drove over to the police station and threw a brick through one of the windows. Appearing in court the next day, she smashed two more windows by throwing ink wells at them.

A whole month later, still fuming, she showed up in the police station with a loaded shotgun and threatened to shoot every policeman in the building. It took four of them to disarm her!

"Vive la difference!" we repeat. Without it, men would have no occasion to wonder about the eternal mystery that is woman!

—Paul Brock

"Very well, Harry—if that's the way you feel about it, you can have your old engagement ring back—do you happen to know which one it is?"

"I've always wanted to have my name in lights, so today I changed it to 'Exit!'"

"I notice her husband doesn't bury himself behind a newspaper every morning!"

*"Men often spend their money impulsively ... on the
'her' of the moment!"*

"I think we should take separate vacations this year, Doris —the doctor said I need a good, long rest!"

"If you are serious about wanting to improve your circulation, why not let me take you out for dinner one night this week?"

"He must have sent out his binoculars to be polished and adjusted!"

Joe: "How did you happen to become a chiropodist?"

Moe: "I always was at the foot of my class, so the decision was easy!"

"I'd rather have the two cuddly ones with the little pink noses!"

SIGHFUL EYEFUL!

"There wouldn't be so many fellows and gals taking it on the chin, if they didn't get into such a lather over each other!"

"And while I'm at it, I'd also like to give you a piece of my mind!"

"If this is what you wanted to see, why did you travel 2000 miles? You could have walked around the corner to 42nd Street!"

GEE-WHIZ!

PEEK-A-BEAUT:
EVE EDEN

PEEK-A-BEAUT:

RITA RICHARDS!

PEEK-A-BEAUT: FREDDIE JOHNSON!

"Many people are usually set back on their ego, when they fish for compliments and never get a bite!"